

BASTROP STATE PARK

BACKGROUND Bastrop County

Bastrop State Park is 7,500 acres, approximately 30 miles southeast of Austin in Bastrop County. The Park is within the famous "Lost Pines," an isolated timbered region of loblolly pine and hardwoods. Bastrop SP is a mosaic of loblolly pine/post oak forests, previously grazed pastures, and corridors of riparian woodland dominated by water oak. While the area was heavily impacted by the 2011 Bastrop Wildfire, varying fire intensities have produced a diversity of habitat types. Dense re-sprouting trees & shrubs dominate some areas while mature trees remain in others.

The hunt area will be closed to park visitors, during the hunt period, while other areas will remain open to the public.
